“Documentation, Action of Listening”
International Study Group

International Centre Loris Malaguzzi
Reggio Emilia, Italy
November 28- December 3, 2010

From the Research project “A guided visit to the town – Reggio Tutta”:

“At night Reggio is beautiful, because they turn on the streetlights that look like a lot of suns, because you don’t see the poles.”

“Pedagogical documentation is a substantial part of the goal which has always characterized our experience: the search for meaning. To find the meaning of a school, or rather, to construct the meaning of a school, as a place which plays an active role in children’s search for meaning and our own search for meaning of a school, as a place which plays an active role in the children’s search for meaning and our own search for meaning (and shared meanings)”.

Carla Rinaldi, pedagoga and President of Reggio Children

The programme of the study group will include:

- presentations by pedagogistas, teachers and atelieristas on:
  - the principles of the Educational Project
  - Actions of Listening
  - The new Exhibit “The Wonder of Learning. The Hundred Languages of Children” and Reggio Children publications as tools for making children and teachers’ learning processes visible.
- presentations of research projects carried out in the Reggio Emilia Infant Toddler Centres and Preschools
- Visits to Preschools and Infant Toddler Centres
- Visit to the Loris Malaguzzi International Center
- Visit to the Documentation and Educational Research Centre
- Discussion groups
- Exchanges of experiences among the participants

Participants are expected to have a knowledge about the Reggio Emilia Infant Toddler Centres and Preschools experience, its theories and values, and specifically about the pedagogical documentation, through related literacy and through its practice individually and collegially.

Participants are also expected to be prepared to actively interact with other participants and Reggio educators during the week and on specific occasions when opportunities will be given to exchange experiences and reflections.

Individual participation fee: Euro 1200 (20%VAT/taxes included)

Spaces are limited and registrations will be processed according to the date of arrival.
